

Dear FCC Chairman,

Business is great and small have benefited from the Net Neutrality Rules set under the Obama Administration. I would like to see the continued progress of the United States of America as opposed to being sent backwards due to any limiting and small-minded thinking. We should continue forward with the net neutrality that is currently in place. As a investor and stockholder in several companies, the Internet is an asset to many people including myself. I would hate to see any business whatsoever be interrupted because of fearful and fear-mongering individuals are afraid to compete in this new wave of innovation.
